Job Description

Title: Online Course Developer – Health Sector

Ashton College is currently seeking an experienced Online Course Developer (Healthcare Sector).

The successful candidate will have at least a relevant Bachelor's degree with at least three years of experience developing online CPD courses for licensed healthcare professionals. Familiarity with healthcare terminology is essential.

This position will appeal to a healthcare professional (active or retired) who has a passionate interest in developing training courses for a wide variety of licensed healthcare professionals across Canada. Working directly with regulatory bodies, the successful candidate will formulate course learning objectives, identify relevant course content and materials, and structure assessment policies and practices in keeping with the CPD requirements of the relevant regulatory body. Excellent communication and writing skills are required. Previous experience working with a recognized learning management system will be a distinct asset.

This is a one-year renewable contract which allows for working from home and flexible hours. Remuneration is negotiable depending on experience.
